HISTORICAL SKETCH OF GREENFIELD, IND.

(By ARTHUR C. DOWNING)

This resume is in no way written to cover any activities other than a brief outline of the growth and development of the City of Greenfield.

Greenfield, the County seat, and only city in Hancock County, was laid out in June, 1828, by five commissioners appointed for that purpose by the Indiana Legislature of 1827-1828.

The land from which Greenfield was carved was entered in 1826 and 1827 and the original plat of sixty acres was donated by Cromwell Meek, Benjamin Spillman and John Wingfield. The name Greenfield was adopted on the suggestion of Samuel Vangieder, Elisha Chapman and John Hunter.

The first lot sold from the original plat was purchased by John Anderson, his deed bearing the date of June 4, 1828.

The first to settle, on what later became the Town Cite were Cromwell Meek, Benjamin Spillman, Morris Pierson, Dr. Lot Edwards, William Carr and Lewis Tyner.

The first business house, prior to the organization of the town was built by John Justice, of log post construction with clapboard siding and roof.

The first frame building was erected in 1830 by Benjamin Spillman. The first frame residence of any note was erected by James Hamilton (Father of Moses W. Hamilton) and used as a tavern.

Being located on what was known as the National Road and being situated half way between the West and East boundry lines of Hancock County, the spot became important as a stopping place for the stage lines. Many persons of State and national note were among the early sojourners. John Branden was the first licensed tavern keeper, his place being located on what is now known as the southeast corner of State and Main Streets (The Old Gooding Corner).

The first business men of Greenfield were John Justice, grocer, O. M. Moss general store, William and Lewis Tyner, all operating prior to the year 1828. Subsequently the following were granted license to vend merchandise, James Parker, James Hart, A. H. Freeman, Jared Chapman, Samuel Duncan, Joseph Chapman, Nathan Crawford, E. & R. Tyner, John Mongle, James Hamilton, E. & D. Maxwell, Samuel C Duncan, Robert Wilson, John Harris, C. S. Perkins, Joseph Andrews, John White, Eli Gappen, Joseph Stafford, Dunbar & Clark T. W. Smart, William Bussell, Burton & Company, Milroy & Clark, Calvin McRay, Tyner & Chittenden, D. H. Curry and A. T. Hart, all licensed before 1834.

Joseph Chapman, was the first Post Master of Greenfield.

The first brick business block was erected by Hugh Wooster and Cromwell Meek.

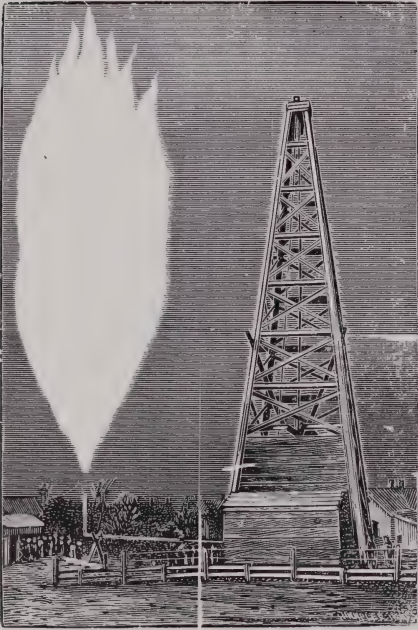

The Christian Church, the oldest in the town, was used for a district court room prior to 1842, at which time the County Seminary was built.

The first Court House and the first Masonic Hall were erected in 1854.

Greenfield was incorporated as a town in 1854 and grew gradually until 1867—when it took great strides in growth of population and civic improvements.

In the year 1853 the first Steam Railroad was completed by the Indiana Central Rail Road Company. Later this road became a part of the system known as the "Pennsylvania" operating from New York to St. Louis.

On May 8th of 1876 the "City of Greenfield" was incorporated. The first Council Meeting was held June 2nd, 1876, those present being John L. Fry, Samuel W. Barnett, Frank Rosenberger, George H. Alford, W. G. Smith and Frank E Glidden, the mayor was Thomas H. Branham, the clerk Alonzo Ford, the treasurer James H. Flippis.

Early Gas Well Scene

The first paved or brick street was built on Main Street and certain connecting streets and alleys in 1897-98.

The Municipal Electric Plant was dedicated in 1890 and the first water and sewer systems were started in 1892 and 1893.

The first electric interurban line was completed in 1899. It connected the city limits of Indianapolis with Greenfield, and in years later, this original road became a part of what was known as the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern Traction Company running from Indianapolis to Richmond and New Castle, Indiana.

During the years of 1910 and 1920, the City of Greenfield was materially benefited further by the completion of the pavement of the National Road between its limits and the city limits of Indianapolis. The free access of the residents of Greenfield to the trade marts of the larger city had an effect of considerable moment on the local merchants.

The officials of the City of Greenfield now serving are: James L. Allen, mayor; Margaret Staley, Clerk-Treasurer; Mary McClarnon, Utility Cashier; Florence Milbourn, City Clerk; George Beamer Davis, City Attorney; Councilmen—Mrs. Theodore Hoss, Roland Lewis, Charles Dailey, Richard Onstott and Mrs. William Turner.

During the short span of one hundred years the transition from the most primitive of frontier life to the most modern of living conditions, Greenfield has been abreast with the times and never backward. Today the community may be considered largely dependent upon the agricultural activities of the county. It is true many families reside here and the bread winners find their employment in Indianapolis and other manufacturing centers, yet the varied products of the farm serve as the fundamental income for the business interests.

During the year 1887 natural gas was found, or struck by the Greenfield Gas and Oil Company, and for over a period of twenty years, natural gas was used universally for domestic and commercial purposes. No one thing ever happening in this community had a greater effect on the business life and growth of the city. Due to the very low cost of the fuel, manufacturing institutions of many classes came to Greenfield. At one time there were two window glass plants, one fruit jar factory, one rolling and nail mill, a stove foundry, one paper mill, two chair factories, a creamery, one foundry, two planing mills, one saw mill, a gas engine shop, three printing and bindery plants, one ice factory as well as the Municipal Electric Light and Water Plants.

The population of Greenfield was in excess of 6,000 in 1896. Real estate values were at their highest to that time and the general prosperity of the community, until this writing, has never been greater.

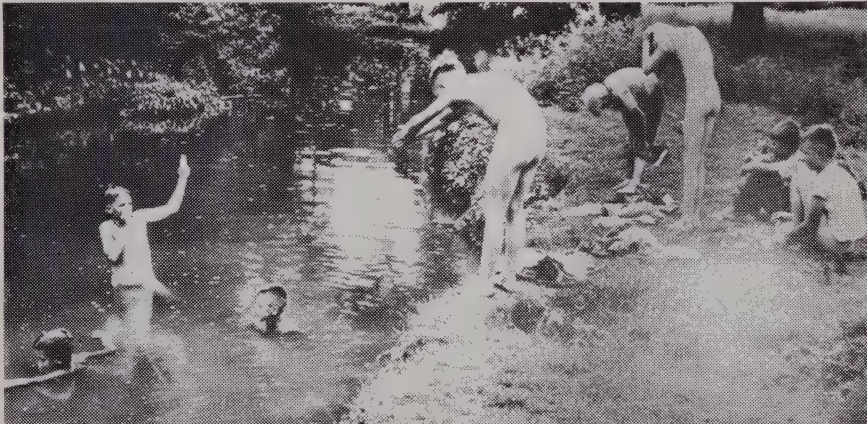

The church development and allied activities has been in keeping with the demand and local requirements.

The School City is regarded to be above the average. The students are supplied with all modern equipment and every branch of learning to give the students eligibility to college courses is provided.

During the years 1929-30 a group of citizens formed an association known as the Greenfield Country and Golf Club. A tract of seventy acres one-half mile east and south of the National Road was purchased and developed into a modern nine hole golf course. This step is in line with the action of people in other communities who find a moderate exercise in the healthy, free air of the country is beneficial to health and happiness of the people.

The public spirited citizens and civic organizations in 1924 caused the city to purchase a twenty acre plat of ground surrounding the banks of the Brandywine Creek, in which was located a swimming hole used by the boys of years ago. This spot was dedicated as 'Riley Memorial Park' to the memory of James Whitcomb Riley, a native of Greenfield whose writings of the "Old Swimming Hole" and "Brandywine Banks" and scores of other homely, human topics, has brought National name and fame to our City of Greenfield, as well as to his name. As a further development of the Memorial, during the year 1930, the City Park Board erected a modern sanitary swimming pool on a spot near the famous "Old Swimmin' Hole", and persons by the thousands from far and near have paid tribute to the memory of James Whitcomb Riley by enjoying a swim on a lazy, sleepy, sultry afternoon.

Riley's Old Swimming Hole

During 1935 the City of Greenfield purchased the Birthplace and Childhood home of the Beloved Hoosier Poet, James Whitcomb Riley, from his heirs. At the same time the city council authorized the formation of a non-profit organization to be known as the "Riley Old Home Society." This Society was empowered to rehabilitate and restore the home as of the year 1870, this being the time Poet Riley reached his majority and the year of his mother's death.

Hancock County Court House

The Society completed its work and opened the place as a National Shrine in 1937. The popularity of the Poet is demonstrated by the fact over 1,000 persons per month and coming from all parts of the world, have signed the register.

Throughout the period from 1920 to this date in 1955, Hancock County has kept progressing with the times; the agricultural interests have been very active in promoting the welfare of all interested in farming and spent much time in developing the youth to the way of most modern and successful methods in animal husbandry and growth of crops. Various township meetings are held regularly wherein the groups exchange ideas and discuss plans for the betterment of those in and about the neighborhood.

In the towns and cities a great number of groups have been formed, all for the purpose of improving the ways of living for the community in general. The ladies have their Greek letter societies that have been very active in child welfare and educational programs. As for the man, through lodges and civic clubs a vast amount of good has been accomplished, the major benefit being the care and improvement of the status of the under privileged children.

There is a very strong tendency for everyone to believe they are their brother's keeper. Therefore, work for the betterment of man kind's living standard has kept pace or bettered the United States average.

One of the most progressive steps taken by the citizens of Hancock County and Greenfield was the building of the 50 bed hospital. The same, at a cost of $800,000 was dedicated December 5, 1951. After 3½ years of successful operation the need has been proven and indications are an additional wing must be added.

During the past five years many modest but substantial manufacturing plants have been started thus increasing the occupational chances. With many large plants being operated in the eastern part of Marion County, as well as the great increase of employment at Fort Benjamin Harrison Finance center, the census estimate gave Greenfield a population of 8,200 and about 450 additional in the county proper.

Throughout the years the Circuit Court of Hancock and the legal profession have served the citizens of the community in a commendable manner. Many of its lawyers have been state wide recognized.

The medical profession has always maintained a high standard; the public health has always been well guarded and very few epidemics have caused any great percentage of loss.

Concrete Drain Tile

Farm land is made more productive when properly drained. Can be worked earlier. Soil fertility is increased.

But be sure your tile is CONCRETE. For properly made concrete tile gets better with age. Won't crumble or shale under frost. Always perfectly round and true. Dense, firm and strong.

All sizes. Low prices.

WE'RE READY TO BUILD . . . LET'S GET TOGETHER

It takes concerted action to get things done in these Modern times. It takes co-operation and mutual assistance . . . and that's where your Chamber of Commerce comes in.

Your Chamber of Commerce is an organization of business and professional men and women banded together for the good of our community. Its sole function is to get things done for the community at large. It works on the community level and not for any individual or particular firm.

The Chamber of Commerce invites you to share in maintaining the civic, industrial and commercial progress of our community. Help us make it a better place to live, to work and to do business!
